Finland, with minor exceptions, is the only country apart from the American continent where you can hunt white-tailed deer in the wild. A biotope similar to North America, vast deep forests with agricultural cultures have become an ideal environment for the development of this beautiful animal. The white-tailed deer was brought to Finland in 1934, 1 deer and 4 deer, which became the basis of the entire, now several thousand, population. The hunting area is located approx. 250 km from Helsinki airport in a beautiful environment of small lakes and spruce-birch forests. Accommodation is in smaller cabins, equipped with a bedroom, kitchenette, toilet, shower and fireplace. Of course, there is also a classic Finnish sauna. Upon request, it is possible to arrange accommodation in one of the nearby hotels. Both accommodation options offer a high standard and quality services.
